GEN. H. B. LYON DROPS DEAD

Heart Failure Ends the Life of An Old Confederate Soldier.

WEST POINT GRADUATE.

Was Walking Across Field
On His Farm When Stricken.

Gen. H. B. Lyon, of Eddyville, one of the best known men in Kentucky, and chairman of the commission which built the branch prison at that place, died Thursday, shortly after suffering a stroke of apoplexy. He was walking across a field on his farm when he was stricken.

Gen. Lyon was the great-grandson of Col. Matthew Lyon, who sold him self for his passage across the ocean and who later elected Thomas Jefferson President by his one vote.

Gen. Lyon was a graduate of West Point and afterward served in the United States army on the frontiers of Texas and Mexico. At the breaking out of the Civil war he cast his lot with the South and was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General.

He was seventy-one years of age, full of honors and ripe in years. A wife and three sons and three daughters survive him. Capt. Frank Lyon, of the United States navy, now at Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. Grace Kevil, of Princeton; Hugh, Ernest, Maybelle and Loraine, who remain at home.

He was mayor of Eddyville at the time of his death.

LATER DETAILS

Of the Burning of Factory at Golden Pond.

Additional details have been received of the burning of W. R. Wilson's factory at Golden Pond, Trigg county, Wednesday night. It was a building 40 by 60 feet, shedded on one side and contained 8,000 or 10,000 pounds of tobacco and other property stored on one side, including four buggies, some wheat and provisions, hay, etc. The mob arrived at 12:15, 20 or 25 men, all masked. One was riding and the others walked three miles from the river. They were from the east side of the Cumberland river and crossed near Canton, using the ferry boat and a skiff. The skiff was gone the next morning. The telephone lines were cut and the mob created a reign of terror in the little town of 5 or six stores. Several bullets were fired into the dwelling house of E. W. Rhodes, merchant. The men were all masked by long cloths coming down to their breasts, with slits for eye holes. It is said that some of the men were recognized.

EARLINGTON COUPLE

Were Married Here Wednesday Night.

A wedding at Grace church Wednesday was one of the events of the week. Miss Mabel Martin, the bride, is the accomplished daughter of Mr. C. E. Martin, of Hopkins county, and the fortunate groom is Dr. C. B. Johnson, physician for St. Bernard Coal Co., of Earlinton. The bride had been visiting in Alleville and came here on the Nashville Accommodation. She was met at the station by Dr. Johnson. They drove to Grace church where they were united in marriage by Rev. Geo. C. Abbott, the rector.

The happy couple were the guests of Hotel Latham Wednesday, Thursday morning they took a train for Earlinton, where they will make their future home.

ANOTHER BIG ENTERPRISE.

Davis Monument and Construction Co. Succeeds
the Contracting

BUSINESS OF L. H. DAVIS.

Will Begin Work May 1st
With Many Contracts
On Hand.

The rapid growth in the business of L. H. Davis, monument dealer and stone contractor, has made it necessary for him to form a company to take care of the various departments and handle new business. It will be an unincorporated company to be known as the Davis Monument and Construction Company, which will begin business on May 1st.

Mr. Davis will continue as general manager of the business in all its branches.

W. H. Hester, recently with the Hopkinsville Lumber Co., will be assistant manager and superintendent of the building department.

George Wilson, recently of Gracely, will be traveling representative of the monument department.

Hugh Nelson will continue as superintendent of the concrete department.

M. O. Mason will continue as superintendent of the team department, having in charge excavations.

Miss Kathleen White will still be book-keeper.

The marble works will be in charge of the two marble and granite cutters.

The company will increase its capacity and greatly enlarge its business. An electric pneumatic plant will be installed in the marble room for cutting and lettering marble and granite. A lot near the factory has been leased for storage purposes.

The new company already has under contract the stone work on the new residences of T. J. Tate, T. M. Dalton, L. H. Davis, J. D. Thompson; on the Baptist church addition, the baker shop at the asylum, the new retaining wall at South Kentucky College and the new stone fence around the Latham homestead.

A part of this fence on Ninth street is nearing completion and is a beautiful piece of work.

The remainder of the line on 9th street across Campbell to 7th and up the 7th street side will be made of Bowling Green white limestone, handsomely cut inside and outside, and on top of which will be placed a twelve-inch wrought iron rail, double scroll pattern, to be fitted with handsome wrought iron double wall gates.

This work will be commenced July 10th, and when completed will make this grand old home stand one of the handsomest in Kentucky.

LUCIAN M. CAYCE

Has Bought Lot and Will Build Residence.

W. F. Garnett & Co., for Mrs. Belle Willis, on Thursday sold to L. M. Cayce a building lot on the north side of West Fifteenth street. Mr. Cayce, who is now living in Memphis and traveling in southern territory, will return to Hopkinsville and make this his headquarters. He will build a handsome home at once.

Everybody Good.

Not an arrest has been made by the police since last Wednesday. Everybody seems to be good all at once and the police force have been almost spoiling for work. Even the bibulous inclined have managed to walk so straight that it looks like the town has gone "dry."

Boards Wanted.

GENTLEMEN—Apply to Mrs. R. L. Carter, west 7th St. and Jesup avenue.

Gentry's Dog and Pony Show is headed this way and will be here the last day of May.

Look out for the spring millinery and new suits to-morrow that should have appeared three weeks ago.

The city public schools close on Friday, the 31st of May. Graduating exercises take place at the Tabernacle Thursday night, the 30th.

Pawnee Bill's wild west show may not strike tents until to-morrow afternoon. If they do not, what a crowd they will have during the day.

John McCarley has built two handsome cottages on South Virginia street. They are nearly ready for occupancy and have already been rented.

The genuine spring weather, which set in last Sunday, has made, it is said, a great improvement in the appearance of the wheat crop, though some farmers had already broken up their wheat fields and are planting corn.

To-day the Pawnee Bill show will be here and if the weather is favorable it will no doubt draw a large crowd. They show "in the open," only having a canvass wall around the grounds. "Mercer Park" has been secured for the two performances. The show will come over the I. C. road.

The policemen expect their new uniforms to arrive to-day. They will be of police blue serge. The hats will not be received for ten days or more. They will be soft with broad brims, brown in color, with brown cord—the regular policeman's summer hat. The officers may not don their new uniforms until the hats arrive.

With the singing of the birds, the appearance of early flowers, the hustling for spring hats and fresh vegetables from the South, it may be safe to declare that spring has at last arrived; but the appearance of barefooted boys on the streets and the tiny white Oxford peeping out from the skirts of the young misses infallibly proclaim that everybody may now get busy.

BEDS RUINED

In the Society of Equity District, Hancock County.

Pellville, Ky., April 25.—Last week H. D. Brown and J. C. Barlow found that all their tobacco beds were totally ruined by having been sown in headgears. Of course no one has any idea who the guilty parties are and the equity people disclaim all knowledge of it.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION.

Was Formally Opened Yesterday by the President.

IS FAR FROM COMPLETE.

Kentucky End of Big Show In Good Shape.

The Jamestown Exposition was opened to the public yesterday and President Roosevelt took part in the ceremonies. Norfolk is crowded with people and the transportation question is a serious problem. The exposition proper is not more than 60 per cent. completed. The Kentucky building and exhibits are nearer in readiness for the opening than most of the other States that are to be represented. Congestion of freight has caused delay in furnishing the building and installing the exhibits.

Mr. J. B. Walker, of this county, left Tuesday to be present as a commissioner in charge of the Kentucky Agriculture Exhibit.

NINE DIPLOMAS

To be Given to 6 Young Ladies and 3 Gentlemen.

It's out, the agony is over and there are six happy young ladies and three happy gentlemen who have successfully passed examination in the city high school. The nine fortunate young ladies and gentlemen who will be presented with their diplomas by Superintendent Hamlett on the night of May 30th are:

Misses Emily Clark, Nina Rickman, Ellen Davison, Estella Biddle, Mary Younglove and Erma Armstrong, Messrs. Lawson Faxon, Athol Bartley and John Lawson.

A SMALL FIRE.

Stable of R. H. DeTreville Saved but Hay Lost.

An alarm of fire was turned in from the residence of Mr. R. H. DeTreville, Clay and Eighteenth streets, yesterday. The department responded promptly and turned the water on Mr. DeTreville's stable. The building was pretty much saved but there was several dollars loss in hay.

The fire started in the hay loft, and it is believed that some one who slept in the loft had been the cause of the hay catching on fire.

The Weather.
Saturday, fair and slowly rising temperature.

A Costly April.

Tuesday's Nashville American had the following in regard to the im-precedented bad weather for the first three weeks of April:

The unfavorable weather of the past month has cost the country many millions of dollars. The fruit crop has been almost destroyed ed, the early vegetable crop is practically ruined, the early berry crop has been greatly curtailed, truck farmers have suffered severe losses, and the wheat and cotton crops have been injured.

The blight has been general. To the South and in more Northern zones the effect has been the same.
The New York Commercial has this to say: "What is going to be the outcome of this cold weather? It is a question that is asked with a great deal of seriousness just now by the horticulturists and the farmers of the country. It is the most unseasonable April in many years. The lapse into winter last week, while apparently being of a purely transitory character, bore destruction on its breath in many quarters. Nor is there any assurance that the milder atmosphere of the present day may not be shrouded by another snowfall or a nipping frost before the week is done. It does not require the unflinching testimony of the "oldest inhabitant" to assure us that it is all most remarkable. Nature in the ordinary course of events had, as usual, provided for the regular rotation of the season. To all interests and purposes had come. The sap went up in the trees, and the buds sprouted forth. The result is that the fruit crop of 1907 is going to be inexpressibly short. In some localities there will be nothing to it —it will be an utter failure. Truck gardeners, promoters of early fruits and vegetables, are the most direct and immediate sufferers. Their losses amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars; nor can they well repair them. The transition from winter to summer is likely to be sudden. As to the effect the snows and cold on the general agricultural situation of the country, that remains to be calculated.

No state has suffered more than Tennessee. In Kentucky and Alabama and Georgia it is as in Tennessee.
The fruit crop will be very small.
The early vegetable crop is so nearly ruined as to necessitate another planting. This means a delay in supply and an increase in the prices.

HOT WEATHER AHEAD.

How to Keep the Kitchen Cool and Comfortable in Mid-Summer.

Many a housewife is wondering how she will pass through the coming summer months with the stove she well knows will make the kitchen unbearably hot—to say nothing of the dirt, dust and ashes that will add to the discomfort.

There is a way out of it all—a way that not only lessens the work and keeps the kitchen cool, but that also reduces fuel expense. This convenience, comfort and economy is all effected by the new Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove, an oil stove so superior to other makes that it is fast replacing the coal and wood range, the old-fashioned oil stove, and in many cases the gas stove.
Anyone who has had to wait ten or fifteen minutes for the fire to get started will appreciate the New Perfection, which gives a strong working flame at moment of lighting. "Blue Flame" means the hottest and cleanest flame produced by any stove. The flame is always under immediate control and can be raised or lowered instantly. The convenience of this will be understood when it is considered that while the flame of one burner is boiling the kettle or roasting a large joint, that of another can be reduced to simmering point—in this way enabling the housewife to cook a variety of dishes at one time.

Then the comfort of it. While the flame of the New Perfection is intensely hot, yet the heat is not thrown off into the kitchen because it is concentrated by the blue-enameled chimneys.

On washing and ironing days the comfort and convenience of the New Perfection will be greatly appreciated.
It gives the best results in the least time, and does away with all coal and wood carrying and the many other disagreeable jobs that have to be done with other stoves.
The New Perfection is made in three sizes, with one, two, and three burners, and is warranted to give full satisfaction.

Another home comfort is the Rayo Lamp, which produces a light of unusual brightness, yet soft and mellow—a light that will not hurt the eyes. The Rayo Lamp can be used in any room, whether it be library, dining room, parlor or bedroom. It is highly ornamental, being made of brass throughout and beautifully nickel-plated. Every lamp is warranted and makes a valuable handsome addition to any home.

The New Perfection Wick Blue
Flame Oil Cook-Stove and the Rayo Lamp are two real essentials to home comfort. Their easy operation, absolute safety and handsome appearance commend them wherever stoves and lamps are used.

Out of Sight.

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special ing influence. Guaranteed by R. C.

Two more Christian county farm-and Curg Noel, who live near Con-

the county line, west of Julian.
They are poor men, non-association farmers, and each had one large bed sufficient to plant his small crop. Their beds were entirely destroyed by the hoe brigade.

Graduation Gowns.

Graduation gowns, as a rule, are pure white; occasionally, however, one sees in the girle, or in a scarf or a shoulder-knot, an expression of the class colors. The materials may be simple or elaborate, ranging from a dainty dimité to a chiffon, crepe de chine or shimmering gauze.

One graduation gown alone no longer meets the requirements of the college graduate. The many festivities crowded into commencement week demand several gowns of varied character, chiefly in all white.—The Delineator for May.

Held Constitutional.

Frankfort, Ky., April 24.—The court of appeals today handed down a decision in which the constitutionality of the act creating the board of regents of the state normal schools and appropriating $50,000 a year for their maintenance was upheld. A suit was instituted in Bell county to test the act of the legislature.

COLD WAVE

Struck the City After Five Days of Spring.

After a light fall of rain Thursday night or early Friday morning another cold wave struck the city about 10 o'clock Friday morning. During the warm bright days, which set in Sunday morning, the mercury in the tube reached up in good earnest for the 80 degree mark, but could only get to 82, remaining for a short time. At 10 yesterday morning rain had ceased to fall, overcoats had been substituted for umbrellas and some people thought we might have a taste of the snow storm that was prevailing in Kansas. At 10:30 the temperature had dropped 33 degrees, and the glorious summer of our content was made abominable winter by that chilling wave from the west.

BEVERLY NOTES.

After a long absence we will let you hear from our neighborhood.

Weather fine, fishing splendid, farm work progressing nicely.

Miss Mary Belle Giles is visiting Miss Ada Adams.

Miss Cora Means spent a few days with her aunt, Mrs. A. T. Word.

Mrs. J. D. Jones is very ill.

Mrs. Wallace West is much better.

Miss Beulah Word, of your city, spent several days here recently.

Miss Martha H. Stegar gave a social in honor of her guests last Thursday.

Messrs. William Hancock, of Pembroke, and Chas. Pierce, of Church Hill, visited relatives here last week.

Mr. Jesse Giles returned from Florida last Wednesday night.

"The Little Black Mustache" is a very late song with some of our girls. They always have the very latest music.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Cayce entertained the "Initial Club" last evening on a hay ride. All pronounced it the best yet.

The Herndon meeting is being regularly attended by our people.

Miss Mattie Sue Cayce is visiting her uncle, Mr. Chas. Adams.

Rev. Willis Allen, of Bowling Green, preached at Liberty Sunday.

Mr. J. T. Steger and others are fox hunting near Nortonville.

Misses Myra Word and Janette Major are quite ill at this writing.

The Beverly school closes in a few days. The teacher, Miss Gladys Bartley, will be missed by her many friends and acquaintances. She will also leave behind several sad hearts, but the club extends to her a most cordial invitation to meet with them often.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Large attendance, much interest manifested, all invited. With best wishes. April 25, '07. STRANGER.

WHISTLE NUISANCE

Receiving Attention of Henderson People.

The Henderson Journal of Wednesday, said: "Citizens residing near the Chinese wall through Henderson have not by any means given up their struggle for the suppression of useless noises since their turn-down by the council at the last meeting and are still after the locomotive engineers who toot unnecessarily."

The last Christian county grand jury came near indicting the owners of a rock crusher, just outside the city limits, for useless blowing of a loud whistle. Those who called attention to the nuisance are determined that if it breaks out again to persist in having it abated. There is no reason in having a nuisance imposed on the people year after year. We have innumerable whistles in town, and should any of them become a nuisance the council will be appealed to to abate them.

Harsh physics react, weaken the bowels, causes chronic constipation. Doan's Regulets operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation. 25c. Ask your druggist for them.

HERNDON HAPPENINGS.

Herndon, Ky., April 25, '07.—It seems now as if spring was really here but we can't say much about it for fear that April is only joking again.

Misses Bessie Anderson, of Hopkinsville, and Bettie Bouldin, of Pembroke, are guests of Mrs. C. R. Bouldin.

Miss Susie Calhoun, of Hopkinsville, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends here.

Miss May Vaughn has returned to her home in Elmo, after a week's visit here.

Miss Ida Procter, of Bell, Ky., visited friends here last week.

Miss Mary Major, who had been the guest of Miss Annie Laurie White, of Garrettsburg, returned home yesterday.

Miss Zetta Dawson spent Friday and Saturday in Hopkinsville.

Misses Eunice Carter, of Hopkinsville, and Effie Dawson, of Roaring Spring, who had been guests of friends here for several days, have returned to their homes.

The protracted meeting in progress here will be continued until Sunday night. Bro. Hummel, of Princeton, who has charge of the meeting, has proven himself a man of unusual ability and power, and although there has not been much interest manifested, the crowds are increasing every night and much good is hoped for before the meeting closes. WITH PAPA AT THE TUB

Humbrist's Idea of the Way a Man Would Tackle an Important Household Duty.

Many fathers stand aloof from the common domestic duties, not because they are so busy or because they are not willing, but because of ignorance, says Tom Masson, in the Delineator.

How many men are there who would not gladly drop their business at any time and stay home and give the baby his bath, if they only knew how!

Yet in reality it is much simpler than it seems. Fill the bathtub full of any good water, first carefully removing all germs. Put your elbow in occasionally to see if it is the right temperature. If ice forms on your elbow you may know the water is too cold. If there are blisters then it is too warm. Be moderate in all things.

Take the baby firmly by both feet and shake him loose from his flannel moorings, until you begin to see safety pins ahead. Then remove the safety pins with gas nippers, and unroll until the baby looms into sight.

Now, having put on your rubber coat, put one hand firmly under the baby's chest and the other on his back, and launch him on the still waters. When he has kicked all the water out of the bathtub, renew as before.

Be careful, while you are manipulating the baby, to keep him face down. Otherwise, you would not be able to put water anywhere else but in his mouth.

NEW AND FINE LIGHT.

The palmroom, after the harsh March wind and the dust clouds, was like a moonlight night in the tropics. A peculiar illumination, a ritzy greenish-blue, gave to everything a charm and mystery.

"It is like the light under the sea," said a girl in yellow.

"It is like moonlight," said a matron in black and white.

"What is the cause of this strange and beautiful light?" the host inquired of the servant who brought the coffee.

"That there is the new kind of electric light, sir," the man answered. "The facade of the opera in Paris is lit up with it. They have it in the foyer of the Ritz. It is the comin' thing."

"It's a light in a glass tube a yard long, sir. This glass tube is iridescent all over. It throws in all directions its soft, blue-green rays which can't be told, sir, from the finest quality of moonlight."

"It's scientific name I don't know, but this here light in a long glass tube is the comin' thing, they tell me, in decorative illumination, sir."

THE FLAW IN THE SPAN

By WILLIAM G. STEVENS
(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Yesir, we're ben bridgin' the bloody chasm today." Flushed with the conviviality of the Blue and Gray fraternization, a stranger dropped thumpingly into a chair at my table in the Monticello cafe. Amber trickles had streaked his stubby chin whiskers at the corner, and his mouth was lolling on the north by a ripe tomato of a nose. "Stiggins' my name, I'm c-mander of Winslow Post up state," he resumed, engagingly, "last time I was down here to Norfolk I helped in the fast bridgin' of the chasm on record, that's why I come all the way to this." My polite look of inquiry opened the flood-gates wide, and the story flowed ripplingly.

"Well, sir, I enlisted in November, '64. Before that I was a harness maker, gettin' good pay on artil'ry traces, but bein' a young devil in them days—he—he—I got in a fuss; so I skip out quiet, gets my bounty and calls myself Jones. Then right off the cap'n of our company made more trouble for me. He talked a lot 'bout dis'pline, which I found out was only another name for makin' a man do a heap of unnecessary things, an' was pickin' on me all the time. He wa'n't nothin' but a little rant, anyway. I stood it patient till one day, while I was settin' under a tree on picket duty, he come by. I salutes an' he order ben satisfied with that—it was a chore for me to do it, I tell ye: 'Get up, ye loafin' hayseed,' says he. 'Not for you, ye damn little skunk,' says I, bolin' mad. 'You quit bossin' your betters?' Well, you'd a died to see him blaze up an' explode! Then I gets up easy an' give him a squirt of plug out splash in the eye an' follers it up with a socker to the jaw. He didn't wake up for two hours. Haw-haw, I was a good one, eh?"

Mr. Stiggins paused to ring for another high-ball, and his protruding eyes wandered up and down the room to see whom else he might devour. But the place was deserted except for a lanky fellow in a broad felt hat whom I had noticed bending over the hotel register an hour before, and who now seated himself at the adjoining table with his paper and cigar.

"It took six men to git me into the guard house," declared Stiggins in the newcomer's direction. But as the man was buried in his paper, Stiggins was forced to continue for my benefit alone.

"Well, they jugged me for six months, and that prison was where we bridged the chasm, like I said. It was an old stone warehouse made over, an' choek full. The room I was in—'bout ten by twenty—held four Yankees an' six rebs, with a guard at the door. Two'n't long before we got real friendly, an' right off we begun layin' plans for escape. We all wanted to git out, an' that was what Carrotty called our bond of union. Carrotty—we called him that because he had flannel-shirt hair—was a real smart Johnny Reb from a South Carolina regiment sent up with the other prisoners from Roanoke. He was a spy, though he claimed that it was only because he'd ben caught stragglin' in a shirt an' blue jeans; half his brigade, he said didn't have no uniform an' he was only tryin' to find his regiment when he got nabbed. Anyway, he was crazy to git out; under talk loony 'bout his wife an' kids.

"Now, he'd smuggled in a little Sheffield knife, an' when he found that in the scuffle of gittin' me in they'd left my knife, he almost whooped. I give it to him an' he took it off in a corner. Then, settin' my back against his back, he pounded with a loose brick till he saw-edged him. 'While I pound,' says he, 'you fellows make a deuce of a racket somehow so's the guard won't hear me.' Then everybody yelled an' hollered, tellin' who was the jackass, Lincoln or Jeff Davis, till Carrotty was done. Next he saws on the iron bar in the window. It took four days to git through, an' while he saved he had us all in a sweat to save the plugged his ears. Then, help some too. Dabby had to hug the window every mornin', but Carrotty made a kind of putte with ashes an' plugged the crack before he come his rounds.

"Now I was the strongest in the bunch by a whole lot, an' when Carrotty gone clean through he says, 'Stiggins,—he foun' Jones wa'n't my real name,—Stiggins, we need your liege on that bar, an' only one man can git a hold to once. The next cloudy night, when the guard walks up the corridor, you bend the bar out, and as I'm the only death sentence here, I'll skip out first; then you pull it back so's you can hang a coat over it when he come past again. Keep brain' it till you let 'em all out.' You see he called I'd git out last.

"I'll think it over," I says to myself. That night I laid awake on purpose. There was stars, but I was goin' to take my chances. 'Bout two o'clock when the guard was movin' sleepy-like up the corridor, I gets up quiet an' takin' good hold, bent the bar an' braced it with my foot till I could jes' squeeze out sideways. Then I drops onto the flat roof of the nex' building an' makes trucks for Portsmouth. Nex' mornin' early I jump on the tail of a train carryin' furlough men, an' in four days I was in Pittsburg enlistin' again an' gettin' another bounty. That's where I fooled everybody good, eh?"

"Carrotty? Oh, early nex' mornin' they foun' me gone an' the busel shed in the winin'; so they give Carrotty time to write home an' then stood him agin a wall. It was kinder too bad, he was a smart feller, but as I says to myself when I drops out, if I let him out it's givin' aid an' comfort to a rebel spy which is treason, an' treason means—well you know!"

Up rose our neighbor, threw off his hat an' leaning his hands on our table, looked Stiggins in the eye. I noticed then that his hair was bright red. But Stiggins fell back with wild, bloodshot eyes. "Carrotty," he whispered hoarsely. "No, Carrotty's son; stranger," turning to me, "for ten years I've attended encampments looking for this man, and I reckon I'll take no interference. If you don't get right up," this to the shapeless huddle in the chair, "I'll do the trick right hyah." A steel barrel flashed from his pocket. "But I'd rather not mess up the floor if I can help it." "For God's sake, man," I began again, but he swept me aside manacingly. Then he roared his dazed prisoner and thrust him out into the midnight.

Optimistic Obed

By Hugh Pendexter

(Copyright by Joseph B. Bowles)

It was Alvin Binger's funeral. Although he had died in Ottaville, an adjoining town, all his neighbors in District No. 6 gave up the day to decent black and arse contemplation at who would be the next to require their kindly services and sorrowful attendance.

As school-teacher in No. 6 I was expected to be present at the obsequies, and in company with my host, Mathew Currier, drove silently and slowly through the clouds of dust.

"Alvin's baby, granddaddy, miss him," I remarked, recalling how a splendid boy, the only one to disregard the pathos of the day, had kicked his sturdy legs in a kindly maternal's arms and had refused to recognize death.

"Too young to know," defended my host, his brow puckering. "Why, Obed Spidgett, in the next wagon, there, will miss Alvin more'n th' baby will. An' he never saw him except on town meetin' days years ago, when Alvin use ter live here."

As the different carriages radiated from the cemetery the lagging pace gave way before a tight rein and the fane of mourners disappeared in byways and cross-roads, each intent on arriving home in good season for the evening chores. And I was interested to observe that Obed Spidgett was to be our guest at the supper table.

I had seen him once or twice before and had been impressed by the habitual, cheery expression on his rugged face and had come to associate him with things amiable, as in a community where life is sometimes viewed in a somber light I anticipated pleasure in studying him at close range.

"Gimme th' heel piece, Meth," he said, heartily, as we drew up to the table; and my host placed the toughest slice of the loaf on his plate, to which Mrs. Currier added burned, rind pieces of pork.

"Many at th' funeral?" asked Si, the hired man, who had remained at home to care for the live stock.

"Yes," affirmed Mr. Spidgett, "an' 's'bouted to be surprised if we had another soon. Sister Lurinda dreamed of a burryin' last week an' th' hearse comin' from the city way."

Si shuddered and moved his chair to escape a draught from the window

"Lem'me Heft Him."

while Mrs. Currier pleaded her apron and mused: "Why, who can it be? We're all well here, I believe. Ye don't feel sick, do ye, Methew?"

"Aw, I don't, an' I ain't got ter," snapped her husband. "What ye tryin' ter pin it onto me fer?"

"Ye might be sick an' not know it," reminded Si, reassuringly.

As we pushed back our chairs and returned to the sitting room Obed remarked: "Wal, won't that youker have a hard time of it! I'm cety afraid he won't grow up ter appreciate an' enjoy it. That's th' way with babies, half of 'em don't see th' value of their trials. So he's got to out th' poor farm."

"I ain't said," growled Mr. Currier, frowning at the bowl of his pipe. "It may come ter that, an' mebbe not. Fer a week he's ter stay with one th' neighbors over there. Mebbe they'll keep him right along."

"They won't," declared Obed, cheerfully, donning his chair and standing on the sharp corner of the window box until he burned a hole in his coat.

Mr. Currier was a bit rough in ordering Si to keep off the cattle. "Then he said: 'It's tough, but mebbe it's got ter be as ye say, Obed. Ye see, there won't be only a few dollars left from th' foreclosure sale of Alvin's farm. Th' best I can do, if those folks won't adopt th' baby, is ter board him on th' farm at th' expense of th' town an' save th' money agin th' day he quits th' place ter hustle for hisself. He's a fine boy baby, too.'"

Mr. Spidgett cut his tobacco in pellets that could not help but smother him. Apparently he was disappointed to learn the poor infant would some time emerge from pauperism. If he lived and if the other selectmen permitted Mr. Currier to carry out his charitable purpose, with a few dollars in his pocket. For after allowing several matches to burn his fingers he observed: "Like ter make a boy upsh, something of a dude, ye know ter start him in life as a heir."

"He won't have more'n $40," remarked Mr. Currier, "even if th' other selectmen agree ter my scheme." "An' that may be jest enough ter spite th' lesson his home trainin' on th' farm might learn him," declared Mr. Spidgett, almost sourly, rising to depart.

When I returned from school at noon the next day I found Mr. Currier harnessing his horse with every indication of being in a hurry. As he buckled the straps he told me Mr. Spidgett had been thrown from the wagon shortly after leaving us the night before and had broken a leg. My host suggested that I accompany him on a visit to the injured man, and as I was curious to note if anything agreeable had occurred to mar Obed's pleasure in possessing a fractured limb I accepted the invitation.

We found him propped up in a most uncomfortable chair, trying to read without his spectacles. "Twe snapped a leg four times," he said, "but th' doctor thinks this is th' worst yet. An' d'ye know, I kind of feel as though he's made a botch of settin' th' bones. I jest tapped my foot on th' floor before ye come in an' it hurt like sin. Guess I'm in for a week of it."

"Ain't heard 'em talkin' on th' poor farm yet, have ye, Obed?" joked Mr. Currier.

"Almost," the other grinned. "Spoke ye soon, have an addition over there in th' Binger baby, won't ye?"

I enjoyed his frown as Mr. Currier replied: "Baby's been adopted."

"Then he won't go" was the dispirited query.

"Wal, not fer another week," modified my host. "I should have said he was only temporary adopted. Goin' a week from next Monday."

Mr. Spidgett brightened perceptibly on being assured the baby's lease on respectability was not permanent, and he chuckled at my host's short lived triumph and said: "Ye told me that before. That's not 'er. Th' fact remains, he's got ter go. Wal, it'll be a good trainin' an' a lesson ter him."

It was a relief to be at school on the Monday Mr. Currier went after the child to take it to the poor farm. I did not care to see him when he passed through the district, and therefore, when I came home to dinner and learned he had not arrived, but was expected every minute, I tried to hurry through the meal and evade him. Just as I had refused pie, much to Si's amazement, and was leaving the table, a wagon drove into the yard and Mrs. Currier announced: "Here's Meth with th' baby."

But it was not her husband; it was the optimistic Mr. Spidgett, half reclining on an improvised couch, while his sister, a grim, wooden faced woman, very deaf and seldom known to speak, held the reins.

"Meth here?" he inquired. "I can't come in. Had all I could do ter git inter th' wagon. If th' fish peddler hadn't come along an' gimme a boost I'd still be ter home, I guess. Most tipped over twice. Gee! but that leg frets me."

Mrs. Currier had hardly explained her husband's absence when another wagon whirled into the yard and my heart sank as I saw the small bundle my host was so carefully holding in the hollow of his left arm. I had hoped the baby had found a permanent home with his foster mother of the week. Mr. Currier's face looked very sour as he tossed the lines to me and said: "Hang his beln' s'lectman! I don't mind a growed-up pauper, 'cause they are usually shiftless an' jest as fit ter be there as anywhere. But this little cuss ain't done nothin' ter deserve it. Anyway, we'll give him one more independent dinner before he comes ter takin' town charity. Hello, Obed. No use ter speak ter yer sister. Hitch, an' come in."

"Lem'me see him, Meth. I can't git down, ye know," said Mr. Spidgett, his face now reflecting only pleasure.

"Ye might wait till ye git well an' call on him at th' poor farm," replied my host, grimly, yet resting one foot on the hub of the wheel and holding up the cowering infant in his arms. The wind blew back a corner of the blanket, so that the little face peeped out and Mr. Spidgett's countenance grew solemn.

He gingerly picked up one kicking, worsted covered foot between his rough thumb and finger and eyed it in deep surprise. "Lem'me heft him," he asked.

The baby did not mind the transfer and lost no time in clutching one fat, dimpled hand in the gristly whiskers that tickled his chin.

"Smells like new milk," remarked Mr. Spidgett, apologetically with a red face as he raised his head. But I could swear he kissed the little cheek.

His sister's inexpressive face stole a bit of animation as she snatched the tiny form from his awkward lap and gently patted the brown hair and rearranged the blanket with her usual grace. Then she asked in her usual monotonous voice, "Shall we go back now, Obed?"

"Hold on!" cried Mr. Currier, as Obed nodded and the wagon began to turn. "Ye've forgot th' baby!"

"No, we ain't," grinned Obed sheepishly. "We've got him. We're got him right along. I planned on it ter take him home. I didn't want no come between him an' this experience. When he's older he'll enjoy thinkin' it over. Better pull th' blanket over him, Lurinda, or else he'll come holdin' him. Gee lang, there."

And that night nature was gladder and the woods and hills more desirable for Obed's having lived and I could look through the years and see a quaint old man in No. 6 no longer braving rainstorms, but being ruled by the iron hand of a youngster.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away. Hopkinsville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Hopkinsville testimony to prove it. R. C. Moorefield, Sr., real estate dealer and associated with the Christian County Title Co., residing at 222 W. 17th St., Hopkinsville, says: "For several years the condition of my back and of the kidney secretions furnished ample evidence that I was suffering from kidney disorders. The aching in my back would come on by spells often, so severe that it was painful for me to stoop, to straighten up or to attempt any sudden movement. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised locally, and thinking that they might help me, got a box at Thomas & Trahern's drug store. I had used them only a few days when I noticed a marked improvement in my condition, and I continued their use. They did me more good than any medicine I had ever used and that is putting it mildly. You may publish my statement any time and I will do all I can to let the value of Doan's Kidney Pills be known."

GOOD MEETING OF PLANTERS

The Visitors Were All Well Pleased With Their Reception.

DINED AT THE LATHAM

Three Open Sessions Were Held and an Executive Meeting.

The executive committee of the Planters' Protective Association of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, with all but two of the twenty-five members present, met here Thursday and held three public sessions and an executive meeting.

The morning session was largely attended and speeches were made by President Charles Fort, Dr. J. W. Dunn, E. R. Molliday and Col. Joel Fort, of Tennessee; Senator Frank Rives, Judge J. T. Hanbery, C. F. Jarrett, W. W. Radford and D. R. Perry, of Hopkinsville; T. T. Bassett, of Henderson county, and others. President Fort stated the meeting was held here in the hope Christian county farmers might be better organized.

Mr. Jarrett, the association's salesman, stated that Christian county farmers were rapidly signing pledges and that the organization in the county would soon be in a satisfactory condition. He also announced the sale in Hopkinsville of 600 hogsheads of tobacco at prices ranging from $8 to $12.

T. T. Bassett, of Henderson, told of the organization of the stemming district association, which last year controlled 10,000,000 pounds of tobacco in three counties and expected to double that amount this year. At noon the committeemen and prominent visitors were entertained at dinner at Hotel Latham with the firms of J. H. Anderson & Co. and J. T. Wall & Co. as hosts.

A brief session was held after dinner and at 3 o'clock an executive meeting was held.

Some of the members left on the afternoon trains, but those who remained held a night session presided over by County Chairman W. W. Radford.

Speeches were made by Mayor Chas. H. Menchen, who welcomed the visitors to the city and by Dr. J. W. Dunn of Springfield, Capt. W. J. Stone, of Eddyville, Bradley Wilson, of Madisonville, Col. Joel Fort and others.

J. H. Bell, M. C. Forbes, Ed H. Hester and other business men held short talks and all assured the association that they were ready to co-operate with them in perfecting the organization.

The Kentuckian congratulates the association upon the personnel of its committee. It is a body of excellent citizens who are opposed to lawlessness. With one or two exceptions the speeches were all well tempered, and those who raised issues that should have been left untouched are not members of the committee.

S. K. C.'S WON FROM VISITORS.

Was One of the Closest That Has Ever Been Played Here.

SCORE STOOD 2 AND 1.

Took Twelve Innings to Do Up the Plucky Visitors From Bethel.

The ball season here opened up Thursday in a contest between the club of South Kentucky College and the club of Bethel College, of Russellville. The game was played on the grounds of the local team, on East 7th street.

Whilst the crowd was not as large as it ought to have been, there were enough of both sex, to inspire enthusiasm in the contestants on each side. The fans did their part well and the home team, every one of it, had determination to win plainly written on their countenances.

In fact the visitors had already made a reputation, early as it is in the season, which led many friends of the locals to fear that the first game would be dropped to the Bethelites.

The visitors really did wear an air of assurance that almost bespoke victory and they doubtless imagined that they had another conquest about in hand.

But when "play ball" was heard from the umpire and the gang started to their positions it was evident to the fans that a battle royal was on. From the very first strike to the last was a game that the enthusiastic professional would have gone mad over. On went the fight until the ninth inning was out and the determined men on both sides were even. The tenth inning could not decide the contest. The eleventh inning still could not settle it. The suspense and interest almost equalled the Ben Hur car race. But the S. K. C.'s must win, said their friends, and at the beginning of the twelfth inning our home boys, having fully realized that they had met foemen worthy of their steel, inspired by the cheering of their friends, tacitly agreed among themselves to die in the last ditch before they would yield the game to the boys from Bethel.

Up to this inning the score stood one and one. When our boys secured one run more, the thing was settled. Cheer after cheer went from the fans, while the visitors looked dejected and disappointed. But 2 to 1 stood in figures of fire as big as a barn door to them. They had lost.

It was a grand game. Any league enthusiast would have torn up the earth had he have seen it. In fact it is not often that the great league teams turn out such a game.

The second game was to be played yesterday afternoon and was in progress as our paper went to press.

KRESO

Combination of Coal-Tar Derivatives. (NON-CARBOLIC.)

A STANDARDIZED DISINFECTANT, ANTISEPTIC CLEANSER, DEODORIZER AND PURIFIER

Kresol possesses advantages which make it better and safer than any other material for household disinfecting, and it is preferable to carbolic acid, because it does not burn, is colorless of taste, odorless, etc., because

First. It is safe. In its dilution recommended it is practically non-poisonous, and can therefore be used freely, and is safe to have around. It is not caustic or irritating; it does not attack metals, and therefore does not destroy plumbing; it does not permanently stain washable fabrics.

Second. It is effective. Our laboratory tests require that in a 1% solution it must destroy the most resistant disease germ (the green pus germ) in one minute. It thus disinfects, cleanses and purifies. It destroys foul odors, not by substituting another, but by destroying the cause of the odor.

Third. It is standardized; always the same. You can depend upon it.

Kresol is particularly valuable in preventing an outbreak of contagious diseases, by destroying infection, cleansing, purifying and promoting sanitation. It is the ideal disinfectant for HOSPITALS, WHARF STATIONS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS, SCHOOL ROOMS, BATH-ROOMS, WATER CLOSETS, KITCHEN SINKS, STORE ROOMS, OUT- HOUSES, CARRIAGE BOXES, CESSPOOLS, STABLES, DOG-KENNELS, CAGES, ETC.

For all general disinfecting purposes mix Kresol with water (warm preferred) in the following proportions:

1 tablespoonful Kresol, 3 pints water. (3 pint water, 12 gallons water.)

making approximately a 1 to 40 solution.
